

Le Lundi 3 avril, les élèves de la classe de 5^{ème} Euro sont descendus en bus sur le campus universitaire St Charles. Après un pique-nique zéro déchet au sein des jardins de l'université et une visite de la bibliothèque, 2 ateliers présentés par des élèves chercheurs ont été réalisés avec les élèves du collège. L'intérêt de cette sortie est de donner le goût des sciences aux élèves. Ils découvrent le monde universitaire et réalisent que les méthodes d'investigation et de recherche utilisées en classe au collège s'appliquent aussi à l'université

Voici les descriptions que les élèves ont rédigées en anglais à leur retour :

School trip to the University of Marseille

The university was huge. From where we were eating we could see the math, physics and science building. There was a large library. On the other hand there were not many books, more tables with students. All the books were books for work. Everywhere we went the students stared at us. In the afternoon we did workshops. The first one I did was nice. It was a Taboo on the research of researchers. At the end of each game we had to find what was the subject of the research. It was not very easy but we had fun anyway. We listened to someone talking to us about energies. The problem is that we had already seen that in class. I really enjoyed this day, especially when we ate our picnic. Thanks a lot Madam.

At the university of Marseille I went to the library and I played games with my classmates. It was cool, its name is Tabou. I did experiment with wind turbine and a professor explained again things about wind turbine it was boring but it was cool to play with wind turbine. It was a good day. Good visit. :)

This day was amazing

Day at the University of Marseille

We first went to see the library which was very large. Then we split into two groups to do different activities. Firstly, we played games and secondly we had experiences with fans ! The day was super fun and we were taught well. The workshops were also great a bit long but quite fun !

I loved it !!!!!!!!

The day was great !!!!!

The visit to Marseille

Last Monday, my class and I went to the AMU (Aix-marseille université). When we arrived, we ate our picnic. Then we visited the library of the university. It was very big ! There were lots of books !

Then, the class was separated in two groups. The first group played "Taboo" with two women who helped us because the game was difficult . The game was on the research of three people. It was very funny !

The second group made an activity presented by a young researcher. This activity was on the energies and aeolian. I liked very much this day and it was very interesting !

Monday, April 3th, we went to Marseille.

We left college at 10 : 30 and took the bus with Mrs Moxon and Mrs Barge.

When we arrived, we walked to the university of Marseille and we had a picnic at a place where there were people. It was fun !

After that, we went to see people who explained things to us. The first workshop was a game with cards on researchers from Marseille. The second workshop was a man who explained things to us about energies

The first workshop was fun because we played and it was interesting but I didn't like the second workshop because it was very boring !

Finally, we got back to college by bus !

I liked this day very much !

Visit to the University of Marseille

On Monday, April 3rd we went out to the University of Marseille with my class. We arrived around 11:30 and ate directly and then we went to visit the library, it was huge and there were a lot of students. Once the visit of the library was over we started the activities that took place in two groups. The first activity is to talk about renewable energies and we talked about wind turbines and then we did two jobs with fans. The 2nd activity was a Taboo game about the ecosystem. Then we took the bus and went back.

I liked it.

The AMU school trip :

The 3rd of April 2023, we went to the University in Marseille : the AMU. We took one hour and a half to go to the University with the bus. First, when we arrived, we had a nice picnic outside. Then we visited the library. It was very big. After that, we had a class held by a scientist about the renewable energies and how they work. We did some experiments on windturbines. Then we went to another room and we played a game : the TABOO with words of scientists' experiences. With those words, we had to throw hypotheses to reform the experiences that those scientists did. Finally, we returned to the college and we played ping-pong with miss Moxon ! I enjoyed this unusual day because it was very fun. I particularly liked the experiments and the taboo game on physics.

When we went to university of Marseille, the university is very big ! There is a lot of building, I loved the library because there are a lot of books and its very big. We went in a room, we did experiments on sciences; there was an optical effect, it was impressive. A bit later, we went in an other room, we did a game on words of science, we learned words. I had a lot of loved for the little game, it was amazing. I loved also other activity but we have already learned some things.

Visit to the University of Aix Marseille: First we took the bus to Marseille . When we arrived we ate and we visited the library ,it was very big .

After, we participated to workshops . The first workshop was a game, we had to guess words : the words had to make us guess the subject of the research that the researchers were doing. The second was on energies and wind turbines. It was really interesting.

Then we left, it was a great day.

The University of Marseille

We did multiple workshops we started by making a game in which we have to guess scientific words at the end we had to connect all the words to guess the subject of study of a scientist.

For the 2nd workshop, we talked about energy and wind turbines we had to find which wind turbine blades would be best to create more electrical energy. I really like the 1st workshop because I like this kind of game.

We went to the University of Marseille to find out the University and learn things. First, we took the college picnics. Second, we took the bus. Third, we head to the university. Fourth, we had picnic. Fifth we make our life for 10 minutes. Sixth we went to the library it was very quiet. Seventh we did activities on wind turbines I liked it even if we had already studied this Last we played a taboo and we returned to school, the taboo was good and we laughed a lot.

Nous avons pris le bus du collège jusqu'à l'université de Marseille, nous avons mangé à l'arrive puis nous avons brièvement visité la bibliothèque. Nous nous sommes séparés en deux groupes nous sommes partis faire les ateliers.

First my team has started with a guy who shown us the force of the wind with a fan he lifted a bottle of water with some mechanism. After him, we separated our team in two and did a game with two women. My team didn't win but that was funny after we talked about the calanques of marseille which were poisoned by heavy metal.

Après les ateliers nous sommes partis en bus. La journée était très bien je me suis beaucoup amusé.

University of Aix-Marseille

We went to the University of Aix-Marseille on the Monday before the holidays.

First, we ate there.

Then, we met a researcher and we experimented with wind turbines.

After, we made two games. The first game was to find the research topics of a few reseachers. The second game was about which plants should and should not be in the Calanques of Marseille.

Finally we went back to Peyrolles.

It's a pity that the experiments on wind turbines had already been done in technology.
