

The ring

By Clara—Sofia—Callie and Anais

Once upon a time, in a huge castle, there was a king and his son, the prince.

One Day, in the afternoon, the prince went to the kitchen. He found beans and ate them. But the beans were magical and poisonous and the prince immediately transformed himself into Nessie. The king saw his son leaving the castle as Nessie. The king knew there was a ring to free him. So he asked his bravest knight to look for this magical ring.

The King gave the knight a map to help him finding the ring. The knight started looking for the ring in the castle thanks to the map but suddenly, an impressive ogre attacked him. They fought and the knight killed the ogre.

Many hours later, the knight finally found the ring in a long maze in the castle. Then he went out of the castle to meet Nessie. He slowly moved closer to Nessie and put the ring on its tail. And suddenly, Nessie transformed itself into the prince.

The prince decided to wear the ring for the rest of his life. The king was very happy and he lived happily with his son ever after.

The end.
