

under the well

By Titouan— Noa—Jimmy

Once upon a time, a angry ogre king wanted to know what was under the deep well of his huge castle.

So, he sent the gingerbread man, who was the chief of his guards, to inspect the well. He found a dark cave. In this dark cave, there was a poor boy.

« Who are you? » said the gingerbread man.

The little boy didn't say anything but he sent a fatal poison on the delicious gingerbread man.

The poor boy knew there was a king above. So, he took a sharp sword from the gingerbread man and left the cave to kill the ogre king. When he arrived at the castle, he first killed the guards with his sword. Then he arrived in the throne's room and fought with the ogre king.

Finally, the poor boy succeeded. He took the skinny crown and became the new king.

The end.
